Conditions for the acceptance of your Emotional Support dog in the cabin

Under certain conditions, dogs which are trained to provide emotional or psychiatric assistance are allowed to travel in the cabin, without cost. Dogs are not permitted on the seats. Your dog must fit on the floor in front of your seat and may not impede the legroom of another passenger or block the aisle or emergency exit. If there is no suitable area for a large dog in the cabin, it can be transported in the aircraft hold without extra cost (provided that you have a suitable kennel available).

The transport of an Emotional Support dog must be requested via KLM CARES at least 48 hours before departure. You must have a signed declaration from a recognised mental health provider which states the necessity of the dog as travel companion. This declaration may be no older than one year and must contain contact details of the medical professional who provided the declaration for verification purposes.

Trained dogs behave correctly in public and immediately follow the instructions of their owners. If this is not the case, details of the dog's training and behavior of the dog may be requested. If an assistance dog does not behave correctly, it may be refused access to the cabin.

The dog must wear a (car) harness and be secured to your seatbelt during the entire flight.

The restrictions on travelling with animals can differ per country. Passengers are responsible for arranging any necessary formalities. Please note that misuse of this service may result in the refusal of the dog in the cabin.
